Park City Community Foundation and YOU

Thank you for helping Park City Community Foundation (PCCF) make the greatest possible impact within the context of our community needs. Your care, concern, and financial support make it possible for PCCF to bring together local nonprofits and community leaders to contribute both monetary resources and innovative ideas that create lasting change.

Community Investment

Question
4 you help answer this year?

How do we meet the needs of women and children in Summit County in an ongoing way?

Beyond funding, how we can support the 90+ nonprofits in Park City?

How can low-income students get the guidance and support they need to prepare for and graduate from college?

Park City runs on its nonprofits. How do we show them the love?

Women's Giving Fund

“Knowing that the Women's Giving Fund was stepping up with important funding, we could tell families whose circumstances had changed to hang on because we had a way to keep their children at PC Tots. A huge weight was lifted off their shoulders in a time when they were in a bind.”

Carol Loomis
President, PC Tots

Thank you for making lasting, positive impact for women and children throughout Summit County by once again responding to the current issues and challenges facing women and children.

Thanks to the generosity and inspiration of the members of the Park City Women's Giving Fund, the Summit County Children's Justice Center will be able to provide improved support to child victims of abuse and their families.

The 2016 Women's Giving Fund Grant of $30,000 will provide the Children's Justice Center with training, facility enhancements, and family resources to help offer a safe, comfortable environment and to immediately improve the quality of life for children and family members who have been impacted by the trauma of child abuse.

Women's Giving Fund members also share experiences in work and life to girls ten times a year at Ecker Hill Middle School through the mentoring Power Lunch.

“We are fighting back against the silence that's associated with child abuse. We believe that every child in Summit County deserves a happy childhood. With the Women's Giving Fund grant, the Children's Justice Center will be impacted for years to come.”

Melissa McKain
Director, Summit County
Children's Justice Center

“ I want the students I mentor to say ‘yes, I am a woman of color, but I still have the same opportunities.’ I want the students in Bright Futures to know their opportunities. I don’t want them to feel like they are the have nots and I want them to see all the opportunities they have in this community. ”

Rebeca Gonzales
Program Director
Bright Futures

Bright Futures

A problem was presented: Only 25 percent of first-generation collegians earn a four-year degree. As the Park City School District sought to improve those odds, it started Bright Futures, a new public-private partnership aimed at increasing the number of first generation college students who go to and graduate from college.

Bright Futures prepares students with tools such as self-advocacy, persistence, and problem-solving, through bi-monthly mentoring and skill building sessions, in addition to a four-day intensive summer academy. At the core of the approach are “Crews”: teams of students, three to six members in size, working to support each other in achieving their goal of college graduation, from ninth grade through college.

Bright Futures is based on a very successful Southern California program called Bright Prospect, founded by a Park City part-time resident.

Opportunity Grant

Park City Education Foundation (PCEF) raised a portion of the funds to launch this program through donor directed contributions from long-time PCEF supporters.

In addition, Park City Community Foundation (PCCF) made a one-time start-up Opportunity Grant of $39,000 in support of PCEF’s efforts for Bright Futures.

The Opportunity Grant is a new mechanism that connects PCCF’s donors and donor advised fund holders with key leadership initiatives in the greater Park City area.

The Bright Futures grant was made possible by generous support from the Mark C. Lemons Foundation, the Louis Family Fund, Annie and Kevin Parker, and the Bob & Susan Richer Fund.

Live PC Give PC reaches more nonprofits than ever

Live PC Give PC is now the event of Park City. This 24-hour day of giving creates an opportunity to highlight nonprofits and the important role they play in our community. In 2015, more than 3,200 donors united to give $1,358,688 to local nonprofits. The goal for 2016 is $1.5 million, with more than 90 nonprofits participating — from educational organizations, to the arts, land conservation, health care, and more.

Nonprofit Investments Thanks to Live PC Give PC

The Hope Alliance is now able to offer vision services in Park City.

Recycle Utah provided the opportunity for residents and business to dispose of "hard-to-recycle" items such as glass, Styrofoam, pallets, bike tires, and any type and size of plastic items.

Utah Avalanche Center produces daily avalanche advisories on KPCW.

Summit Community Power Works keeps pushing through the LED Switch, Control Switch, Comfort Switch, and Power Switch to earn the $5 million Georgetown Energy Prize.

Mountain Trails Foundation's was able to groom Round Valley this winter.

EATS Park City ran in-school taste tests, expanded its school gardens, and hired their first paid staff person.

Park City Education Foundation supported school-specific programs like PCHS Band's uniforms and travel to national competition so that every student could go.

New in 2016: Best Buddies is the world's largest organization dedicated to ending the social, physical, and economic isolation of the over 200 million people with intellectual and developmental disabilities, and is now expanding into Park City. With funds raised this year, Best Buddies hopes to combat the isolation currently being experienced by families and their children in the local community by creating "buddy birthdays" and "buddy balls" that are free to families and provide social connections.

What nonprofits are saying about the nonprofit roundtables

What's different about Park City Community Foundation? Beyond awarding grant money, PCCF is the place for nonprofits to collaborate and learn from one another. And with education comes better governance and financial responsibility, which leads to stronger, more viable nonprofits. It's one distinct way we're giving to the organizations that give so much to greater Park City.

PCCF offers eight roundtables a year for executive directors and nonprofit staff members on topics ranging from legacy planning, to founder's syndrome, to annual giving campaigns, to communications.

Open Roundtables are open to anyone working for a nonprofit organization – program staff, development staff, executive directors, and more. Executive Director Roundtables are for EDs only. Executive directors, situated between board and staff, have a unique role; the roundtable recognizes this by providing a unique space for learning.

“Absolutely the best, most productive hour I've spent. Thanks to Park City Community Foundation for organizing. You are a terrific community resource and you are helping us grow.”
