Resilient People. Sustainable Place. Inclusive Culture.
THANK YOU FOR BEING PART OF OUR RESILIENT AND INCLUSIVE COMMUNITY

DEAR FRIENDS,

Whether you are new to town, like Joel, or have been here for years, like Kristi, it’s easy to see why Time Magazine named Park City one of the World’s Greatest Places in 2022. It’s also challenging for us to see Park City grow so quickly as we wrestle with sustainable tourism, climate change, and fostering an inclusive and equitable community.

Park City is an amazing place to live, work and play, but we also face critical challenges. There is a chronic shortage of affordable housing that impacts every aspect of our community. Fewer than half our families can find the early childcare they need. Access to quality mental healthcare is declining at a time when the need is increasing. And then there’s our declining snowpack and increased fire risk.

We are not the only mountain town or community facing such challenges, but we are uniquely positioned to address them. With an incredible network of nonprofit organizations and a generous philanthropic community, Park City Community Foundation plays a vital role in partnering to solve our area’s most pressing issues.

This annual report highlights the impact we have had since January 2021 with a focus on some of the individuals and organizations that have made it happen. From helping to raise nearly $4.5 million during Live PC Give PC to support our nonprofits, to ensuring all children have access to sports and recreation through the Solomon Fund, we are proud – and grateful – to serve the greater Park City community.

Together, we can make sure Park City remains one of the world’s greatest places, where everyone has access to all it offers and feels like they belong.

With gratitude,

KRISTI CUMMING

ABOUT PARK CITY COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

We bring together local nonprofits, caring donors, and community leaders to contribute financial resources and innovative ideas to benefit all the people of Park City. As the philanthropic hub of greater Park City and Summit County, we care for and invest in our people, place, and culture.

Our donors are creating positive and enduring change by supporting organizations and initiatives that produce the greatest impact. We are also ensuring the future of Park City through an endowment that cares for tomorrow’s community and meets changing needs over time.

In the following pages, you will learn how we support and strengthen local nonprofits and our issue-specific programs. With a broad range of stakeholders—from philanthropists and activists to government leaders and businesspeople—the Community Foundation identifies the most critical local needs and develops solutions.

We are convening the community, sparking innovative ideas, responding to urgent needs, and making high-impact grants—all with a laser focus on inclusion. Together, we can build a community where all residents feel like they belong.

I am so incredibly grateful to get to do such meaningful work in a community like Park City. I feel like I’ve come home.

Solomon Fund and RISE Fund are special initiatives operated by Park City Community Foundation that strengthen connections between community members, foster a sense of belonging, and create inclusive spaces for our entire community.

Solomon Fund offers local, Latinx children inclusive opportunities to participate in recreational activities like sports, dance, and summer camps; and their families are being connected to important community resources.

Solomon Fund is a program that directly impacts inequities in Park City with measurable outcomes. What an incredible gift of empowerment to help children realize their potential through the Solomon Fund. Thank you, Beano, for serving as an example for our entire community.

The RISE Fund has been instrumental in connecting deserving students to Park City High School’s Mountain biking team. Students not only benefit from being active outdoors, but from the opportunity to make new friends and challenge themselves. No kid should be denied the chance to participate in recreational activities, and RISE Fund helps make mountain biking possible for so many students who are willing to get out there and ride.

WOMEN’S GIVING FUND

Seeing how the pandemic disproportionately affected women and children, it became important to me to join and support the Women’s Giving Fund. By providing funding to organizations that help women and children, we have improved the lives of some of our most vulnerable community members.

- SUE BANERJEE, WOMEN’S GIVING FUND MEMBER SINCE 2021

This endowment fund was started 10 years ago by local women and over the past year our focus has been growing the fund so that it can better meet the urgent needs of local women and children. The goal is to have 2,022 members by the end of 2022. Each year the members choose one organization to receive a large grant, and growing the fund will allow members to make more or bigger grants.

You cannot change any society unless you take responsibility for it, unless you see yourself as belonging to it and responsible for changing it. – GRACE LEE BOGG, CIVIL RIGHTS ACTIVIST
The vision of our Early Childhood Alliance is for all Wasatch Back children – aged zero to three – to have equitable and abundant opportunities to thrive, learn, and grow into participating members of the community. The Early Childhood Alliance engages, educates, and supports community partners and families so that young children can reach their full potential during this critical stage of development.

The Alliance is working to address the huge need for more local childcare capacity. When children do not experience high quality childcare, they start kindergarten at a disadvantage and are at risk of not catching up.

- $850,000 deployed in grants and programming since 2019
- $275,000 deployed in the past year

As a funder and philanthropist, I think that the most important thing that we bring is vision and strategy to enable the process that created the Early Childhood Alliance. We created an infrastructure to access private fundraising, public fundraising, and community fundraising. We are two and a half years into the execution and within five years we aim to have the problem solved. Park City Community Foundation has been unbelievable. To all of you looking to make this community a better place and you don’t want to do it on your own, the Community Foundation is a great partner.

-BRIAN SHIRKEN, DONOR
Mental Wellness Alliance

The goal of the Mental Wellness Alliance in Summit County is to facilitate and support community-wide solutions to address mental health and substance use, including treatment and prevention for both youth and adults. Mental health issues cannot be effectively tackled without the whole community’s involvement, and this Alliance helps to foster collaboration between partners, identify gaps in service, and facilitate funding opportunities.

As a community or society, I don’t think we pay enough attention to our mental health. We tend to run ourselves down to the ground and we only seek support or help when we are in crisis. If we took a more preventative approach to mental health as we do with our physical health, our efforts in life would be much more fruitful and appreciated.

-Javier Alegre, Executive Director of Latino Behavioral Health Services, One of the Alliance Partners

Park City Community Foundation is an essential pillar of the social infrastructure that brings public, private, and nonprofit partners together to evolve our thinking while meeting the challenges. We support mental health and appreciate the partnership with the Community Foundation to help improve awareness, services, and outcomes. This is an area where we can make the community a better place. We all love it here for many different reasons and community engagement tops the list!

PARK CITY CLIMATE FUND

Park City Community Foundation’s Climate Fund tackles urgent climate change issues. We support long-term investment and continued measurement of climate solutions in Summit County that have the potential to scale to similar mountain towns. The Climate Fund has focused its energies on granting to local nonprofits that are knee deep in work that impacts climate - from carbon sequestration and soil health, to recycling and school compost programs. Park City Community Foundation is also the proud fiscal sponsor of Mountain Towns 2030, and we are partnering with MT2030 to identify key areas where our community can make substantial climate impacts in the coming years.

Regenerative agriculture is just one solution that gives the Earth back the power to heal itself. Our goal is to utilize partnership among community players to offer opportunities for education and eventually influence other ranchers and farmers to join our mission to restore and protect the health of the soil, because healthy soil benefits our land, people, and atmosphere. At the end of the day, the ecological, historical, social, and cultural contexts of our community are just as important as the vision.

AFFORDABLE HOUSING

Affordable housing was identified as the top social equity issue faced by community members in a survey we conducted to inform our Social Equity Strategic Plan of 2019. Our area is now experiencing historic income inequality and record high home prices, and affordable housing has become a crisis.

Park City Community Foundation and Mountainlands Community Housing Trust are working collaboratively to inspire local philanthropy in support of affordable housing. A $1 million matching grant is acting as a catalyst to facilitate a multi-million dollar redevelopment project that will improve existing apartments and add new units at Holiday Village and Parkside. Many of Park City’s most cherished and long-time residents live in these apartments, including community leaders, seniors, and neurodiverse residents living with developmental disabilities.

“I truly believe that housing is belonging and belonging is what builds a thriving community. Over the years I’ve seen more and more of my family and friends pushed out due to affordability. My heart is with the workforce and lifeblood of our town. As a former ski patroller, server, and Park City School District teacher, I know the housing challenges well. With the help of Mountainlands Community Housing Trust and Park City Municipal I got into affordable housing in the Park City Heights neighborhood, and I’m now helping others have the same, life-changing opportunity.”
